JULY 09, 2023

Romantic, emotional and refined, the iconic SEI kitchen adds a new colour to its extensive palette.

Euromobil is relaunching one of its flagship projects in a new pink hue, featuring a new natural quartzite Palladium Arte matt finish stone and pink lacquer, which amplifies its fresh and original mood. One look and it already has us dreaming of a kitchen makeover.

The unique colour speaks to the trend of recent times, and this new pink kitchen inspires homeowners to add a pop of colour to their homes in a whole new way. We can imagine how pretty the heart of the home would look when bathed in natural sunlight with this reimagined kitchen.

Designed by Marc Sadler in 2013, the kitchen takes its name from the ultra-thin thickness, precisely six millimetres, of the countertops, sides or shelves. This youthful kitchen gives free rein to creativity and personal aesthetic taste thanks to the more than 50 finishes available.

The SEI kitchen is known for its ultra-thin thickness of six millimetres.

If you've been travelling around the world to capture pink-hued restaurants, cafes, and even pink lattes, you can now add the same splash of colour to your living space. Picture preparing your meals atop this dreamy kitchen, which brings an instant feeling of warmth, calm, and gentleness. Suddenly, spending hours in the kitchen making dishes becomes an enjoyable pastime, and we bet the photos of the finished dishes will look even better as a flat lay on top of the matt stone finish.
